On Wednesday evening, some fifty friends gathered at Mr. 7.1. Most guests home to charivari Mr. and Mrs. Ivan L. Montgomery. After making hilarious notes for some time, they were admitted and made merry. Later, they adjourned to the hall where dancing continued for several hours. Then lunch was served at the Montgomery home, and a social hour was spent. Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery will reside in Hussar.

Mr. Joe Hines returned from Calgary on Thursday, and Mr. Hagdall, who has been at the coast for some time, returned with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bradley motored to Calgary on Thursday for the Stampede.

Messrs Harvey and Ben Jorgensen and Miss Evelyn Jorgensen were Calgary visitors the first of the week.

Mr. Hous. Buckenhardt was in Calgary on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Treacy and family were in Calgary the first of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bell motored to Drumheller on Sunday to meet Mr. and Mrs. Bruce C. Bell. The Bells motored to Acme to visit at the home of the Browns. Mr. Bell went on to Oda where she supervised the annual convention of the Alberta Women's Institute Girls' Clubs.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown and Ruth returned from Banff on Friday.

The tragedy which occurred near Hussar last Tuesday quite saddened the community. Mrs. Sarah Rainer

Penner, 18, bride of Abraham Penner of Acme, was drowned in the dam back of her father's barn at 9:30 Tuesday morning. She had been missed since 7 a.m. Search extended to neighbors several miles distant. Her brother, John Rainer, aged 18, found and brought out the body. Sgt. Cummings of East Coulee, and Dr. Scott of Bassano were summoned. The deceased had been married on Sunday July 16th at 4 p.m. before some 200 guests and an elaborate supper had been served. On Monday, Mr. A. Penner had returned to Acme leaving his bride to assist her mother till Friday, when he was to accompany him to her new home. Mr. Penner returned on Tuesday. The funeral was conducted at Acme on Wednesday afternoon. Interment being made in the Mennonite cemetery at Gem.

While the wedding guests were assembled on Sunday, a near tragedy took place in the same place. Several boys were swimming when Herbert Dyck, aged 17, went down for the third time. His brother, aged 14, jumped in fully dressed, and grabbed him — but was beyond his depth. Ted Sealey threw out a rope and helped pull the boys to the bank. Herbert was unconscious for some time.

John Chang visited Calgary the first of the week.

Many attended the Stampede in Calgary last week.

the SNAPSHOT GUILD AGAINST THE LIGHT

Have you ever tried taking pictures "against the light" — that is, with sun or photo light behind the subject so that the shadows point toward you instead of away from you?

This lighting is a source of many interesting pictures. Striking silhouettes of trees and persons can be obtained. Sunlight, coming from above and slightly behind the subject, will give a soft, pleasing effect.

Of course, when the sun is low in the sky — almost on a line with your lens, the hood may not help, but frequently you can find a position where the sun will be hidden behind a tree trunk. Then the shadow of the tree will serve to shade your lens.

In "against the light" pictures, your lens must be shaded so that no direct sun rays strike the lens. Ordinary exposure gives the silhouette effect. A lens shade must be used if direct sun rays strike the glass, they spoil the picture.

where the light is intense, the ordinary exposure if you want a silhouette effect. To get details in the sun rays

SHADE

More lens shade (at left) prevents glare from direct glare. Gray rays of sunlight or artificial light do not strike it. An inexpensive lens hood or sun shade (see diagram) is very useful, and stops on easily. Indeed, it is an advantage to use such a shade for many pictures. It cuts out stray light and reflections, gives appealing highlights on hair and shoulders. Numerous "different" effects are possible.

Initial steps leading towards organization of a Unity Council Association in Bow Valley Constituency were taken at a preliminary meeting held at Bassano last Friday evening.

Those present comprised all shades of political opinion opposed to the present administration, and seeking a way to best insure success at the polls at the next election.

The situation was discussed pro and con and from various angles.

As a result of the discussion it was decided to ask three men to be responsible for organizing the constituency in such a way that a proper organization would be formed under the Unity Council plan, with a slate of officers, and the election of a permanent delegate to the Unity Council.

It was the general consensus of opinion that in order to succeed against the Social Credit forces, "it would be necessary to have only one candidate in opposition, and that should there be more than one candidate, it would affect adversely the candidate's chance of success."

It was suggested that on July 28 in the various polling divisions, meetings be held all over the constituency for the purpose of appointing two or three delegates (male or female) to attend a further meeting to be held at Bassano on August 1st in the Curling Club Building, at 2 p.m. At this meeting on the 10th it will be proposed that a Bow Valley Constituency Unity Association be formed, with a slate of officers selected, a delegate to the Provincial Unity Council be elected, and each other business as may come before the meeting transacted.

It is understood that already the necessary steps have been taken to call the various meetings all over the constituency on July 28th to elect delegates. One man in each polling division has been asked to make himself responsible for seeing that conducting each meeting. When this has been done it is hoped that the various meetings will be held in full view left unrepresented on the 10th of August. Posters advertising all meetings have been printed and are now in circulation.

TO COUNT CANADA'S WILD DUCKS

Hundreds of Sportsmen, Farmers, Conservators, will co-operate to take census of wild ducks between July 16 and 24th.

In the grey of dawn of July 16 an organized army will stalk up on the banks of wild ducks, across Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. They will carry — not guns and deer but pads of Yellow Sheets — and sharp pencils. Their objective is not a "tag 'o' birds" — but accurate census of the wild duck population in each Western neighborhood.

It is a volunteer army — organized by Ducks Unlimited (Canada) — and known as Ducks Unlimited Keen-men. Between July 16 and July 24 co-operating Keen-men will carry on observations and record essential facts covering the ducks in their neighborhoods. Some Keen-men can devote only a few hours to the work; others will be on the job for days. The aim total of their work will be a complete census of the wild duck population of late farm areas of Western Canada.

This is the second time in history that a census of wild ducks has been taken on North America's great breeding grounds — in Western Canada. The first census was in 1935. It provided facts which led to the establishment of Ducks Unlimited. This 1939 census should yield facts required for further action in the restoration work launched by Ducks Unlimited — as an important part of the vast work of rebuilding the Western waterways.

Hundreds of hunters, farmers and conservators have volunteered as Ducks Unlimited Keen-men. In Saskatchewan and Alberta, Municipal Secretary-Treasurers are acting as Chief Keen-men for their municipalities. Fish Game organizations are checking out districts. Provincial departments are co-operating with the field strength of their officials and field men.

More census workers are needed — to get the facts in every neighborhood. Volunteers are invited to contact their Municipal Secretary-Treasurers and tell him what sections they can

Early Morning Fire Damages Local Bakery

An early morning fire last Friday caused considerable damage to the bakery owned by Mr. J. Storrance of Bassano. Following a heavy thunderstorm accompanied by lightning, fire was first noticed by Mrs. Storrance, and the alarm was turned in at about 4 a.m.

The bakery shop operated by Mr. Storrance is located in the back yard of his residence. It is a large brick building which fortunately prevented any further damage being caused by the blaze. The modern equipment contained in the shop was not damaged seriously by the fire, although there was considerable destruction made by the two streams of water poured into the building by the local fire brigade.

The blaze was chiefly confined to the roof and one wall, the roof being approximately half destroyed. None of the loss was covered by insurance.

It is believed that the fire was caused by lightning striking the power lines leading into the shop.

In Police Court

Appearing before Police Magistrate H. Edwards in the local court yesterday, John Pigert of Hussar was fined $5.00 and costs on a charge of violation of the Game Act.

Also appearing before the court was C. C. Crory of Hussar.

Crory missed a team of his horses from his pasture on Sunday of this week, and on inquiry to his neighbors could not locate them. Some time later, Mr. Crory's son Milton, saw the team being driven by another neighboring farmer, named Pigert, and reported this to his father, who sent the team and driver, claimed them and unblinded and unharnessed them and drove them home. The trial was based on the section of the act declaring it illegal to drive cattle, horses, etc.

NEW COMMUNITY HALL TAKING SHAPE; WORK PROGRESS

On July 20 (Special). The new Community Hall now under construction is rapidly taking shape. A fairly good number have been on hand to help to rebuild the building to completion. However, it is not yet a finish of work and effort yet to finish the hall by August 3rd, the date of Gem's big annual Stampede. The help of anyone who can spare even a single day is urgently needed. When are you going to get on the job? It won't be long now! Until what? By August 3rd, of course. (Gem Stampede).

LECTURE CAR TO VISIT BASSANO

An illustrative Lecture Car will visit Bassano on August 24th, and will be stationed here for the purpose of giving information to all citizens and farmers who desire to attend the lectures. The car will probably be stationed near the local freight sheds. Further information on the lecture will be given next week.

cover — or write to Ducks Unlimited (Canada) at Edmonton, Alberta, or Winnipeg, Man. Each Keen-man is armed with complete forms and information. Each will count ducks and broods; recording numbers and locations. Counts field reports are more useful than any larger number of returns based on guesswork. Complete results will be published, and copies sent to each co-operator.

The 1935 census recorded some 10 million ducks on 750,000 square miles of land and water. Over 600,000 reports by Keen-men from Hudson Bay to the Rockies, from the Red River to Great Slave Lake, indicated that this year, duck population and water levels are higher in the South; lower in the North.

Authorities insist that new restoration and efficient management can double, or triple, our wildlife population in a few years. The work that must be done to put them in air is vital in rebuilding the West. Therefore, all who are sincerely interested in rebuilding the West, are urged to enlist in this work.

Miss Irene Young or Gleichen are in town this morning and will visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Young for a few days.

Sell Many Tickets on Hope Chest

Gem Colony, July 20 (Special). — The Hope chest which will be raffled on Aug. 2nd, Gem Stampede Day, is at present at the home of Mrs. Brown. Anyone who would like to look at the chest is invited to do so.

The Ladies Club expects to have the chest on display in Bassano on July 30, and also in Gem during the day of the Stampede.

The Gem Ladies' Community Club wish to take this opportunity to extend their thanks to all those who have so kindly aided in the selling and buying of tickets on the chest. The people outside of the community have been as willing to assist in every way as those in the district, and the results have been most gratifying.

We would like all those who have taken part in this raffie to return the stubs and money to either Mrs. Brown or Mrs. Vilet of Gem on or before Aug. 3rd. Be sure they are in for the draw.

Local Tennis Players in City

Two of Bassano's youthful tennis fans, Gordon McLane and Graham Calver, are spending this week in Calgary, where they have entered the Western Canada Hard Court Tennis Championships (Tugboat) Contests.

On Wednesday, McLane, in the 1st round, defeated Sealy with score of 6-1, 6-1. In the second round he defeated Drysdale 6-2, 7-5. In the semi-final round, Gordon and Graham met, and the winner will be drawn against Bob Wise of Calgary.

The final results of the games played by these boys will be published next week.

GEM OPEN AIR DANCE

An open air dance will be held in Gem on Friday, July 22nd. Plans had been made to have the dance on the Brown Lawn, but since the floor of the hall is laid, it has been decided that it will be more satisfactory to have the dance there. This will be a very good one, as we have had no open air dance in Gem since we can remember. The Gem Orchestra will provide most of the music. This is a volunteer music, and our sincere thanks are extended to all those who contribute in this way.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to sincerely thank all my friends for their kindness and sympathy during the illness of my husband, H. B. Cowan. Also wish to express thanks to the girls of the Bassano Municipal Hospital Staff, and many people who sent floral tributes.

Mrs. H. B. Cowan, and family

Former resident visits here Mr. Jones, formerly of Gem, visited at the Miller home Saturday.

A correction of last week's news: Mrs. Miller celebrated her 79th birthday, not Mr. Miller. Another correction — Mrs. Robson has been at her home in Gem all during her recent illness.

Refugee to Bassano Hospital Mrs. F. Calaguen, who underwent a minor operation in the Bassano Hospital about two weeks ago, returned to her home in Gem last week, but she was obliged to return to Bassano for further treatment at the hospital, where she is now doing nicely.

EMPIRE DEFENCE

MACKENZIE KING is willing to go to the electors any time to settle the question of whether or not the Canadian people will permit the establishment in this country of military units not controlled by the parliament of Canada, the Prime Minister declared in a warm debate in the House of Commons on July first. Mr. King was replying to a flag-waving speech by the Tory leader, arising out of a discussion over informal conversations between British and Canadian authorities concerning a suggestion that British Army air-schools might be set up in Canada.

"Long ago," Mr. King asserted, "Canadian governments settled the constitutional principle that in Canadian territory there could be no military establishments except they were owned, maintained and controlled by the Canadian Government responsible to the Canadian Parliament and people."

Warm Co-operation with U.K.

The Canadian Government is extending full and willing co-operation to the United Kingdom Government in the matter of Empire Defence. It was stated by the Prime Minister and the Minister of National Defence. But, as a matter of principle, any training facilities for the British Army established in Canada would have to be controlled by the Canadian people.

"Such domestic ownership, maintenance and control of all military stations and personnel," the Prime Minister said, "is one of the really indispensable hallmarks of national sovereignty itself, government and an independent basis for friendly and effective co-operation between the governments of Canada and those of other parts of the British Commonwealth of Nations including the Government of Britain."

"One of the steps in Canada's growth to nationhood was the withdrawal long ago of all military establishments not controlled by the people of Canada, and a reversal of that historic process at this date is something the Canadian people would not sanction," the Prime Minister said.—The Canadian Liberal Monthly.

DEFENCE AND POLITICS

It may be good politics and all that sort of thing, but the Observer certainly does not agree with Prime Minister Mackenzie King in his refusal to allow the government of Great Britain to establish training centres in Canada for the Royal Air Force. We would think that such a move on the part of the British Government would not only be good business for Canada, but highly advantageous to many Canadian boys who would like nothing better than to take training in aviation. It is understood that the British Government foots all the bills, undertakes the training and puts Government foots all the bills, undertakes the training and puts no responsibility whatever on Canada. Even Mr. King weakened somewhat when it was put up to him as to what attitude would be taken in case of war. He hedged considerably along the lines of the British Empire matter. What circumstances? That circumstances would naturally wish to be involved in no war what-soever. Those of us of the older generation (whether we saw war service or not from 1914-1918) do not want to see any more wars.

But there is always the possibility of war and we know full well that in the event of another world war, Canada will certainly be involved as part of the British Empire—or are we?

If Canada is still in the Empire why not be decent enough to accord full co-operation to the authorities of the Empire?—Vegreville Observer.

CANADA'S POSITION

Prime Minister Mackenzie King's statement on Canada's war policy was entirely satisfactory — except that he said nothing ever about what Canada should or would do under the only conceivable circumstances that might possibly drag her into war. There is no more danger of Canada going to war on her own account than there is of Switzerland engaging in a great naval battle on the South Seas. Canada is politically, geographically and constitutionally projected from the British Empire, except as a part of the British Empire. If this is a charge against British connection, it must be frankly accepted as a true charge. But there are various counter-accounts. What would Canada amount to nationally if she were not a part and parcel of the British Empire? Who imagines that our kindly and always considerate next-door neighbor would pay the same respect to our representations, our proposals to negotiate, our punctilious insistence on treaty rights and our all too sensitive susceptibilities if we were entirely unattached to any great Power, and occupied about the same relationship to the United States that Czechoslovakia does to Germany? Canada is a nation and on the map because she is British — and for no other reason. Without that connection, she would be as helpless as Denmark. We would be wholly dependent upon a foreign Power for our protection; and no Power on earth will continue to pay for and provide for a fat and tempting neighbor without asking that neighbor to contribute something to the common fund. We are the most fortunate people in the world living next to the humane, civilized, generous, satiated and Christian American nation. We would not be asked to "contribute" our national heritage. But if Washington wanted the St. Lawrence power scheme pushed through quickly, how long would it wait in patience through our hesitations and our bargainings? So far as foreign policy and Dominion responsibility go, we have not got a satisfactory set-up and no one has yet been able to suggest any workable arrangement. As long as the British flag bears the brunt of Imperial defence, they must be permitted the final decision as to action that may cause attack. Yet it may easily turn out that they will feel a need to run risks which Canadians will deem unnecessary. The only safeguard for us under circumstances is Mr. King's familiar policy of letting the Canadian Parliament decide on each occasion what we will do. This is what he said, and our people as a whole will agree with him as far as he went. It might have been "bad politics" for him to have been more realistic if he had felt able to utter the one thought that rises during all such discussions in the breasts of most of us — the thought that, come what will, "we will never let the old flag fall." Canada will undoubtedly fight, if invaded. Canada is invaded in her most potent aspect when the existence of the British Empire is put in peril. If all our leaders would just say that, in so many words, we could get all these distressing discussions of Canada's conjunctural war policies over and done with forever.—London Echo.

From Our Exchange Columns

We Easterners tend to anchor our national outlook to a fixed idea. True, this makes for rapid progress — but a type of progress that consists of travelling in circles around the hitching post.

The fixed idea to which we are now firmly attached is the foolish fiction that Canada's prosperity is a by-product of factory rather than field. We urbanites have hitched our economic viewpoint to the fallacy that industry is the biggest business in the land; hence governmental bonuses and handouts to industry will automatically counter the more abundant life upon all and sundry.

It is high time we awakened to the fact that industry is not the nations biggest business. Industry is but a pigmy on our economic horizon when compared with that business colossus known as agriculture.

How can we hope for permanent prosperity while this big dollar food corporation known as agriculture lags in the doldrums?

On its payroll are maintained by far the largest group of our gainfully employed. Yet recent years of adversity have reduced the living status of its employees to a level of mere self-sustenance.

This business giant, year by year, produces three times the revenue of our mining industry, ten times the output of our automotive industry, and three times the production of our mighty steel industry. No other form of business is capable of creating and diffusing more real wealth among so many of our people.

Farm recovery is at the very heart of Canada's prosperity problem. Here is a billion-dollar customer for almost everything that industry can make or sell — almost 40 per cent of our Canadian homes which are waiting to unleash a flood of buying the family income rises above starvation levels. Ten years of adversity have piled up mountainous wants and need.

We prate of industry's plight, yet overlook this obvious fact: That industry's plight will never be remedied while our ready-to-buy farm populace is denied the wherewithal to purchase.

If we want prosperity we can have it. But we must start with the primary rather than the secondary producer.

John Citizen in recent years has seen a golden torrent of taxes poured down the unproductive drain of direct relief. He would welcome another form of taxation designed to shorten bread lines rather than lengthen them. Higher prices for farm produce is the answer — higher prices that would percolate back through every stratum of society via the retail currents of the market.

We approach our economic challenge from the wrong direction when we apply remedial measures designed solely for our secondary producers. Any program of recovery that neglects Canada's biggest business — agriculture — is as futile as the process of cutting a patient's throat while giving him a blood transfusion. —Liberty Magazine, issue of July 30

WHERE HONOR IS OVERDUE

Who was the first to span the Atlantic Ocean in an airplane?

In recent months I have asked this question of a great many persons, boys and grown ups. Invariably and instantly the boys answers have been Lindbergh. Not invariably, but more often than not, the answers of the adults have been the same — often given with an inflection of the voice indicative of amazement at such an unnecessary query.

In emphasizing the error of that answer there is, of course, no church disparagement of the achievement of the idol of the United States — a most gallant gentleman. Canada has added her laurels to that bestowed on Colonel Lindbergh and rightly so. She has even named her capital's landing field "Lindbergh Field." But it is not fitting we should credit that Captain John Alcock, D.S.O., and Lieutenant Arthur Whitten Brown, two Britisheers were the first to cross the Atlantic in a heavier than air machine.

At 5.15 p.m. on Saturday June 14, 1919, Alcock, pilot and Brown navigator took off from St. John's, Newfoundland in a Vickers-Vimy, twin-engine. At 9.40 the next morning they landed near Clifden, Ireland, in 16 hours and twenty-seven minutes they has flown 1,860 miles, the worst possible flying conditions. Fog obscured their vision that at times they found themselves flying upside down. Once they came unwittingly within fifty feet of the shrouded sea. Succeeding they won a prize of $50,000 and a fame that must not be permitted to perish.

Canadian Daughters of the Empire are to be commended for initiating a movement for some recognition in this Dominion of what should be an Empire debt to those who, under its flag blazed so heroic a trail. —H. Napier Moore.

COURTESY PAYS

It is gratifying to learn that officers at ports of entry on the international boundary are generally speaking, proffering the hand of good fellowship to neighborly visitors, speeding them on the way without unnecessary delay. The people of Canada as well as the customs department expect courtesy and efficiency in the handling of incoming and outgoing tourists. It looks like a large influx of tourists will visit Alberta this year and more will come if a high standard of service is maintained. In that connection we may also add that businessmen in all towns enroute should render considerate and courteous service, to our tourist friends, whenever occasion arises by giving information and extending a welcome. It is good business for let it be remembered that last year an estimated $300,000,000 was spent by those crossing the border into Canada.—Vulcan Advocate

A WASTED LESSON

Abernati says that the Privy Council's decision throwing his three pie-eyed bills into disarray, will make no difference, as his government will go right ahead. Any sensible man should be guided beneficially by such a rebuke, but not Abernati. All of which convinces us that we are still right in believing that the legislation was deliberately designed for the purpose of being disallowed, to give Social Crediters a chance to howl about the banks and the press.—Claresholm Local Press.

E.I.D. News Notes

District offers Information on Reg. and Cert. Alfalfa Seed

The following News Notes from the offices of the E.I.D., located at Brooks were received for late publication in last week's issue.

The District offers the following information, prepared by the Dominion Seed Branch, to water users interested in the production of registered and certified grades of alfalfa seed.

With the revision of the Seeds Act in 1931 standards of purity for the Registered and Certified grades of Alfalfa seed were changed. These changes affect the tolerance of sweet clover seed in alfalfa seed principally. Before the revision Registered No. 1 Alfalfa seed could contain up to 25 seeds of sweet clover per ounce. Now, under the new standards, alfalfa seed, to take any registered grade, may contain but one seed of sweet clover in two ounces. For certified grades of seed the sweet clover tolerance is practically the same as for registered grades. Grades for the general seeds of commerce have also been tightened up.

Because of these changes in the seed grades, it becomes more important than ever before that all sweet clover plants must be removed from fields of alfalfa that are presented for field inspection for registration or certification. Fields in which sweet clover is found have little chance of being accepted for registration or seed crop certification.

Growers, therefore, should exercise great care in roguing out sweet clover from alfalfa. Sweet clover plants should be dug out by the root and removed from the field. If the attempt is made to remove them by pulling without loosening the root, many plants will be broken off. These will quickly send up new stalks that will soon set seed. Rogued plants must be taken from the field. If left lying where they grew, they will be picked up by the harvesting machinery and still contaminate the crop.

Alfalfa and sweet clover seeds cannot be separated by seed cleaning machines, hence sweet clover must be removed from the growing crop. Threshing machines also constitute a common source of contamination of the alfalfa seed crop. Threshers must be thoroughly cleaned before the alfalfa threshing is commenced. There is likely to be volunteer sweet clover in grain crops and the seed, together with many small weed seeds, is apt to remain in the machines, especially in the trap and trailing augers. The good work done in cleaning the field may be easily wasted if the alfalfa seed crop is contaminated by careless handling during harvesting or threshing or improper storage of the threshed seed.

Install Hydraulic Ram at Lake Newell

Of particular interest to all residents of the Eastern Irrigation District is the installation of a hydraulic ram this week on the park site being developed at the north end of Lake Newell. This machine makes use of the flow of water into the Lake to pump a small supply to the high ground overlooking the park site. It will be used to irrigate tree clumps when the park is developed, and to supply water for household or picnic use.
